CIRCULATING THROUGHOUT THE VAST AGRICULTURAL AREA OF PALM BEACH COUNTY

RECENT OPERATIONS

By Paul Rardin

The State Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission warns sportsmen that if they are paying more than $2 for a resident fishing license they are being gyped and points out that the law sets the rate at $1.75 plus 25c for the County Judge, a total of $2.00.

The above item appearing in this newspaper last week caused quite a furor among folks who sell fishing license in the Everglades section of Palm Beach County. The reason being that in these parts a fishing license costs the piscatorial artist $2.25. The extra two bits, of course, is a fee retained by the place of business issuing the license. The issuing agent in a particular case in Canal Point was appointed by the county judge and told to collect an additional 25c for his time and trouble.

Being somewhat concerned over the matter after the innocent little item had caused such an upset, I wired the Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission in Tallahassee, asking if it was within the law for the county judge to appoint issuing agents and allow them to collect an additional 25c for their work.

From Ben C. Morgan, director of the Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission, I received an answer to my wire and one paragraph is particularly interesting. Since it has that "public be damned attitude" running through it. Here is the paragraph:

"There is nothing in the law which prohibits the charging of a fee by special agents. Therefore, it DOES NOT CONCERN the Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission so long as the Commission receives the amount specified by law for these licenses."

There in black and white from the state capital and from one of the bureaus supported by YOUR CASH you have it direct. The Commission doesn't give a damn about what your license costs you just so long as a specified amount reaches the Commission's treasury. In its own words the Commission IS NOT CONCERNED with charges set up by issuing agents. These agents could just as well charge an extra dollar or two dollars for that matter, if they so desired, for writing out your license. However, in this county I don't believe the county judge would allow any racketeering along this line.

Potato Magic Is Newest Invention

Housewives moved one step nearer to a no-work-all-fun kitchen utopia last week. In cities from the East Coast west as far as Chicago, they were being introduced to Instant Potato, new kind of spud that goes from shelf to table without peeling or cooking. The packaged vegetable has already been peeled, cooked, mashed and dehydrated.

To whip up a fluffy, white mound of mashed potatoes all the cook need do is boil water with salt, add cold milk and powdered potato—stir for a few brisk turns.

Mayor Tells Lions Of Building And Loan Association

Mayor T. C. Richardson was guest speaker at the weekly luncheon meeting of the Pahokee Lions Club at the Lions Hall Tuesday. He explained the new Building and Loan Association which is being established in Pahokee.

It was announced that the Pahokee Elks Lodge had donated $3,000 to the Lions swimming pool fund which makes the fund sufficient to complete the pool. The committee reported that they expect to have the pool finished by the last of September.

A round table discussion was conducted on the proposed hospital building which will be financed with bonds. The city bond election, which is for this purpose, is scheduled for August 31st at the City Hall. Members of the committee decided to inform the public regarding the financing and operation of the hospital before the election. J. M. Elliott has as visitors Joe Boom and Hayes Odum of Orlando, Bill Walker of West Palm Beach and Lion Mathis of Belle Glade were also visitors.

Two Weeks Rule To Continue In Force

A move by Dr. B. F. Austin, director of the county health department, to require all school children to return two weeks before school opening to be enrolled, was given full approval of the County Commission Monday.

The approval came on motion of Commissioner Paul Rardin.

Commission members were told by Rardin that the county had been fortunate this summer in keeping polo down, and any movement to help the record along should be supported.

The following appointments asked by Dr. Austin were approved: Mrs. Roy Pope, Canal Point, stenographer, $130 to $150 salary range; Miss Hilda J. Steffen, Miami, nurse in V.D. clinic, $200; Mrs. Enid Hall, clerk for cancer center, $140 to $180 salary range. It was pointed out that out-of-county applicants were taken only when local qualified ones could not be found.

Increase In Millage For Hospitals And Schools Cause For Tax Boost

Next year's taxes are going to be higher than they are this year. In fact, they are going to be a great deal higher. In Canal Point, state and county taxes will be 22.3% higher, in Pahokee they will be 19.6% higher, in Belle Glade they will be 19.6% higher while in the recently created City of South Bay they will be 16.1% higher.

In order that the man who bears the tax burden may know the why and wherefore of the tax increase, The Everglades News is presenting herewith a table which is self-explanatory. In case, however, that figures baffle you at times, we are going to take the liberty of explaining the two tables.

Table No. 1 shows the millage necessary for the present year compared with the millage assessed for the coming year. That's column one and two. In column three the increase in millage is shown and the fourth column shows the percentage of increase. The first table is easy to understand, it is simple arithmetic.

	Millage This Year	Millage Coming Year	Millage Increase	Percentage Increase
Canal Point	29.87	36.54	6.67	22.3%
Pahokee	33.87	40.54	6.67	19.6%
Belle Glade	33.87	40.54	6.67	19.6%
South Bay	35.07	40.74	5.67	16.1%

Table No. 2 is no more complicated than the first one. But, it is the one that shows in detail where your money goes.

SCHOOL MILLAGE. The school board in order to meet operating expenses during the coming year has had to boost the millage from 14.6 to 17.10 which has already been oked by the state board of public instruction.

HOSPITALS. Directors of the Western Palm Beach County Public Hospital Board, operating the Belle Glade and Pahokee hospitals, have deemed it necessary to raise the millage from 5.0 to 8.25 for the coming year.

TWO ITEMS. You will readily note that in the two items—schools and hospitals—there has been a boost in millage 5.75 mills. This makes up a large majority of the entire tax boost of 6.67 mills.

In Road District No. 11—from which this district gets a large share of money for roads and bridges—the millage is the same as its has been for years—one mill. The Inland Navigation District is assessing one-tenth of a mill in next year's roll.

GENERAL COUNTY. Here is an item that covers many, many expenditures and money from this particular fund is expended under the direction of county commissioners. At the recent two-weeks budget meeting of the commission, members worked for days in an effort to hold the millage down to 9.27 mills—the same as it was last year—but increased salaries of county employees as well as increased costs of materials made it necessary to increase this item some. By naring here and shaving there the commissioners were able to prepare next year's budget with an increase of only .82 mills.

	This Year	Coming Year	Millage Increase
School Millage	14.6	17.10	2.50
Hospital District	5.0	8.25	3.25
Road District No. 11	1.0	1.00
Inland Nav. Dist.		.10	.10
General County	9.27	10.09	.82

(For building roads and bridges, county home, children's home, hospitalization, mosquito control, county airports, mother's aid, detention home, county parks, county agents office, county-welfare, etc., and items handled by County Commissioners.)

Under General County item above you will note listed several of the items which are paid annually out of this fund. This is the fund from which county commissioners carry on their county business and the fact that it has been increased less than a mill speaks well for the men on the board. An increase of less than a mill in the face of rising costs on every hand is assurance that considerable thought and study was given the General County item before it was placed in the budget.

Elks Club Donates Additional $3,000 To Swimming Pool

At a meeting of the Elks Lodge last week that organization voted to donate $3,000 more to the swimming pool in Pahokee. When the pool was first started the Elks gave $1500 to the building fund.

Rupert Mock, who is on the committee from the Lions club backing the pool project, said yesterday that he was of the opinion that the recent donation from the Elks would come mighty near finishing the pool. It is the hope of the Lions that the pool can be finished by the end of September.

Members of the Lions club and other citizens of Pahokee were loud in their praise for the action taken by the Elks in making the sizeable donation for such a worthy project. As one Elk expressed it, "it couldn't have gone for a better cause."

Paul Tedder Given Armed Force Honor For Research Work

JACKSONVILLE—Two Florida scientists will be awarded Armed Forces certificates of appreciation for research work during World War II, State Military District headquarters announced today.

They are Prof. Paul M. Tedder, of the University of Florida, for work on the radio proximity fuse, and Dr. Albert V. Hardy, of Arlington, laboratory director of the State Board of Health, for his work on control and immunization of dysentery.

Prof. Tedder, who is section head of the National Bureau of Standards contract laboratory of the Florida engineering and industrial experiment station in Gainesville, will receive his award at mid-summer graduation services at the University of Florida.

Prof. Tedder is a former resident of Canal Point and attended school here. He has many friends in this area who will be happy to know of the honor he is to receive.

Harold Tedder, a brother of Prof. Tedder and former resident of Canal Point is now located at Riverhead, Long Island, with the federal government where he is a fruit and vegetable inspector.

TIRE INFLATOR!

Nothing arouses a motorist's ire more quickly than to be caught on the open road with a flat tire. Here is something which may help to allay his mental strain: a small 7-by-14-inch steel tank which weighs about seven pounds and which will stand pressures up to 200 pounds. It is carried in the trunk of the car. In case of a "flat," the air in the tank is used to inflate the tire. It contains enough air to inflate at least two ordinary tires, and can be refilled at any garage or filling station.

President (?) Dewey

One night in 1940 the National Press Club in Washington threw a steak and beer party to which all the prospective presidential candidates were invited. The spirit of the off-the-record affair can be judged by the fact that each prominent politico was assigned to deliver a 10-minute address on the subject, "Why I Should Not Be President," and all readily accepted. This list was long, for it was still uncertain whether FDR was going to run for a third term, and all the hopefuls were there except the president himself.

One by one, they got up and delivered their humorous talks making fun of themselves. Lovable Wendell Willkie was in great form. Paul McNutt, with his barbershop sun tan, sang in his rich baritone a parody on the Gilbert and Sullivan son, "They Never Would Be Missed." Jesse Jones, the ponderous Texan, told a shockingly filthy (but funny) story. Many other notables contributed to the gaiety. Finally it came Tom Dewey's turn. The little New York district attorney, not yet even governor, arose and launched a deadly serious account of his own achievements and qualifications, consuming his full 10 minutes. He sought to bring his speech within the party's specifications with a lame conclusion to the effect that of course a man with his great record would not be wanted in Washington. When he sat down he was greeted with deafening silence.

The incident was characteristic of Dewey—always industriously business-like, always slickly efficient, but not often friendly and warm-hearted. Since then, by most accounts, Dewey has changed considerably. He is said to have matured and mellowed in many ways. But it is hard to conceive that he ever could capture the affection of people or command the hot loyalty of his personal followers like a Roosevelt or even a Harry Truman.

Yet Dewey would make a good president, and maybe a great one. It takes a talented, 20th century administrator to run the executive branch of the United States government, and all the ramifications it has developed today. Dewey shines as an administrator. He has surrounded himself not with political hacks but with experts in their fields.

The way Dewey won the nomination probably shows the way he would run the government. It was done with finish-off professional technique and smooth efficiency all the way through. An English newspaper reporter who covered the campaign and the convention gave the perfect description of it: "The humorless efficiency of a certified public accountant in quest of the Holy Grail."

Nor would Dewey fail to get along with congress. The New York legislature is full of die-hard democrats but Dewey has put through his programs for New York State with outstanding success. He had no close contacts with congress like most of the men he defeated for the nomination, but that might be an advantage to him. Certainly few presidents have had poorer relations with congress than Harry Truman, who went to the White House from the senate, and that goes even for the congressmen of his own party.—Fort Myers News-Press.

St. Petersburg Merchants Buys Bugs By Thousands To Prove Killing Power Of A New Paint He Sells

(By Russell Kay)

Before you express the opinion that newspaper advertising doesn't get results, you'd better have a talk with Frank Baker, head of the paint department at Rieck & Fleece, home builders department store in St. Petersburg.

Not long ago Baker took on a new line of paint, a Florida product manufactured by Dianol, Inc., at St. Petersburg, a combination paint-insecticide that is guaranteed to kill insects upon contact. It is known as Dianol which contains a new insecticide D-3 that is deadly to insects but perfectly harmless to humans and animals.

Secret of the product is that the insecticide is homogeneously mixed with the pigment of the paint, thus having full killing power for the life of the paint. In addition, the company produces a powder that can be mixed with any flat oil or water base paint to obtain the same insect-killing results.

To prove the claim made for this amazing product and satisfy the Doubting Thomases, Baker conceived the brilliant idea of holding a public demonstration at which bugged onlookers could see the insects die when placed on surfaces painted with Dianol.

But for such a demonstration he must have insects, roaches, ants, water-bugs, termites and in generous quantities. He decided to advertise for them and called upon his advertising agency, Alfred L. Lino & Associates of St. Petersburg, to prepare copy for publication in local papers.

The following day display ads appeared which read: "Wanted: Insects, bugs, cock-roaches, termites, ants. We want 'em Alive. The following prices are offered: 5c each for 10,000 cockroaches; 1c each for 5,000 termites; $100 for 1,000,000 ants. This isn't a joke. Bring them to our store and see Mr. Baker. We have a new paint which the manufacturer guarantees will kill insects when they walk on it, the killing power lasting as long as the natural life of the paint. We need thousands of bugs for public demonstration to be held at our store Rieck & Fleece, 1216 Central Ave., St. Petersburg."

Within a matter of hours after the ads appeared, bright-eyed eager youngsters began swarming into the store each carrying a jar of live bugs. They poked in cracks, looked under rocks, searched garbage cans, invaded ant hills and they out-Bucked Frank Buck when it came to "bringing 'em back alive."

In no time at all Baker was up to his Adam's apple in bugs. He had can after can of creeping, crawling insects, Mason jars filled with roaches, tin cans full of termites and bottles of ants. At the end of the first horrible day, Mr. Baker was a nervous wreck, he was bug-eyed, his flesh crawled, he couldn't think, eat or sleep. Being completely submerged in a world of insects was bad enough, but it was up to Baker to count 'em.

"Here, Mister," the kids would shout gleefully, holding up a non-shiner filled to the brim with crawling insects, "110 cockroaches, count 'em." Since each individual roach has a specific value and these young merchants wanted payment in full, there was no way out. Either Baker must take their count or count them himself.

For three mad days this wild stampede continued. Phone calls came in from irate parents of bug-hunting youngsters, who were slowly going mad as their offsprings carried on like starved ant-eaters, diving frantically at every unwary insect that put in an appearance. In one case, a boy and girl had gathered thousands of ants and an unknown number of roaches and then spilled their treasure all over the kitchen floor. Other kids, after digging in garbage pails, came home with their clothes a mess and smelling like an incinerator on a rainy night.

Because of the human interest aroused, both St. Petersburg newspapers featured story after story about the affair. Radio commentators talked about it. The Associated Press and United Press picked up the story. From the standpoint of publicity, it proved a smashing success. Everybody had fun, that is everybody but Mr. Baker. He said he may live but he'll never be the same.

Rieck & Fleece paid out several hundred dollars in cash for bugs but feel they got their money's worth. Their store was jam-packed the day of the demonstration and no one was happier on this occasion than Baker who thrilled as he watched his insect zoo destroyed by the marvelous new product.

Result of the promotion is that St. Petersburg has gone bug-paint crazy. Immediately after the promotion, hundreds of quarts of the paint were sold. Now, according to Baker, these same people who purchased quarts are coming back for gallons to paint their entire home.

Cinematic Chatter

By Malcolm Miller

When you put stars such as the following into a picture you've got a Picture. Mickel Rooney, Gloria DeHaven, Walter Huston, Butch Jenkins, Frank Morgan, Marilyn Moorehead, these are the stars I am speaking about. The picture is the glorious technicolor comedy "Summer Holiday."

I use the term "glorious" in mentioning it is in technicolor, because I have never seen any more beauty in one picture than is in this delightful show.

In this comedy you will hear the famous "Stanley Steamer" song with twelve other sensational song numbers. To sum it all up you have "Tunes by top tunsmiths," "laughs by the carload," "Love by starlight" and "color by Technicolor." To add one thing more you will have "The time of your life and an unforgettable evening at the theatre with Summer Holiday."

See you at the movies—Mal.

Senators To Pick Their 1951 Leader

TAMPA — Presidency of the Florida state senate in 1951 has become a hot issue and will likely be decided within the next month or so, probably at a meeting of members scheduled to be held at Fort Walton, August 20.

Senate members attending the recent house caucus at Tampa began active campaigning and the two chief contenders at this time are Senator Raymond Sheldon of Tampa and Senator Wallace E. Sturgis of Ocala.

Sheldon, a veteran member who has served three terms in the house, was speaker pro tem in 1941, and elected twice to the senate, was prominently discussed for the 1951 presidency, during the last session. He was a member of a group that selected Senator Newman Brackin in Crestview for the 1949 presidency.

His opponent in the 1951 race, Wallace E. Sturgis of Ocala, twice elected to the senate and a supporter of Senator Harry E. King of Winter Haven who ran against Brackin at that time, was actively campaigning at the Tampa caucus.

Others being mentioned are Senator Turner Davis of Madison, Senator James A. Franklin of Fort Myers and Senator John E. Mathews of Jacksonville.

Ten votes will pledge the presidency. While there are 38 members of the senate, it is only those coming from odd numbered districts, the new members who will vote. It was the even members who selected Newman Brackin. This cuts the field to 19 in which pledges will carry control.

There are more Kentucky kernels at Hialeah this summer than at the height of winter racing at the showplace Florida track. It's like this: there was considerable quantity of Kentucky corn in the hay taken from stalls for a protective blanket for the racing strip off-season. The seed took root, and the Hialeah track has accidentally become a flourishing corn patch.

PRELUDE TO ACCIDENT-

Injury - - - - Death!

Every violation of the center line of safety is a potential prelude to accident.

Crossing into the danger zone can occur at the approach to the top of a hill—on a curve—going into an underpass, or even on the straight highway. That's reckless, dangerous driving! Accident records show that about one half of all fatal traffic accidents result from bad driving habits such as these.

It's your responsibility to yourself, your family and to others who share the road to avoid these "Pass-Pockets" where lurk injury—and death.

Don't let impatient driving tag your conscience with being one of those who contributed to the maiming or death of the hundreds of thousands who will be auto accident victims this year.

You can be a safe driver if you will. It's up to you.

Miss McClure Bride Of Robert Apelgren

Miss Virginia Ann McClure, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. B. McClure of Pahokee and Robert Donald Apelgren, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Apelgren of New Britain, Conn., exchanged marriage vows at the First Methodist Church in Pahokee Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock. The Rev. Carson T. Howes, pastor of the church, performed the impressive candlelight service. The altar was decorated with large floral baskets of white gladioli against a background of tropical palms and lighted by tall cathedral candles. The pews were marked with white gladioli tied with white satin ribbon and a candle encircled with fern was placed in each window. The altar rail was entwined with fern and white blossoms.

Mrs. Sydney K. Smith, Jr., of Belle Glade, organist, played nuptial music before and during the ceremony including, "O Perfect Love," "Evening Star," "At Dawning," and "I Love You Truly." She accompanied John A. Dulany, soloist who sang, "O Promise Me," and "Because," and also played the traditional wedding marches.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a traditional ivory satin gown. The decollete was screened in lace, with a fitted bodice, full skirt, bustled to the back, cascading into a court train. The removable mitts were pointed at the wrists and her trail-length veil of imported illusion fell from a sequin-crested crown. She carried a bouquet of orchids and stephanotis.

Miss Ruby Jane McClure, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. She wore yellow taffeta fashioned with sweetheart neckline and cap sleeves. Small taffeta-covered buttons trimmed the fitted bodice and the full skirt was bustle draped. A halo of yellow illusion formed her headress and she wore long matching mitts and carried a bouquet of lavender astor pom-poms.

Gwenie Perkins of Fort Pierce, the bride's cousin, was junior bridesmaid. She wore aquamarine taffeta fashioned along the same lines as that of the maid of honor. She, too, wore long matching mitts, a halo of aqua illusion, and carried yellow daisies.

Little Betty Jo Phillips and Bunny Brooks were the flower girls. They wore long pink taffeta gowns with fitted bodice and full ruffled skirt and carried baskets of rose petals. Nancy Perkins, another of the bride's cousins, wore lavender taffeta fashioned along the same lines and lighted the tapers.

Robert M. Howarth of Providence, R. I. was Mr. Apelgren's best man and Richard L. Brooks and Jack A. Phillips of Pahokee were the ushers.

Mrs. McClure chose for her daughter's wedding, a gown of light blue crepe, trimmed with gold buttons. She wore a gold necklace and white accessories and a corsage of pink rosebuds.

A reception followed the ceremony at the home of the bride's parents on Bacom Point Road. White gladioli and white and yellow roses in artistic arrangement were throughout the rooms. The bride's table was laid with an imported lace cloth and the four-tiered wedding cake was topped with a miniature bride and bridesmaid. The guests were served cake, punch and daintily molded wedding bells of ice cream. Serving at the bride's table were, Mrs. Herschell Correlle of Arcadia, Mrs. Richard L. Brooks and Mrs. Jack Phillips. Mrs. Roy Wood of Homestead was in charge of the bride's book and Mrs. H. C. Graham, pianist, played appropriate music. Others assisting were Mrs. Charles Perkins of Ft. Pierce, cousin of the bride and Mrs. Dorothy Johnson of Miami. There were 100 guests attending the reception.

After a wedding trip through the state and the Carolinas the newlyweds will make their home at 6804 Yumuri Ave., Coral Gables.

For traveling the bride changed to a kelly green silk shantung suit with gold buttons, a white felt

Tennis Tourney By School Players

The Pahokee school recreation department for the past week has been in the process of running off a tennis tournament for its members. Due to the warm weather the best four of six games were called a set. The boys played the best three of five sets, while the girls played two best out of three sets.

Rain each afternoon made the afternoon matches slow but there has been much enthusiasm in the competition according to Coach Clyde Alley, who has been in charge of the tournament. The remainder of the matches will be played after August 17th in the afternoon from 4 p. m. on, Alley said.

The following are the results so far: Single senior division. D. Hitchcock over Wilder 4-1; 1-4; 4-2; 1-4; 5-4. Loretta Wilson over Yvonne Fraser 4-2; 4-1. G. Sowder over M. Tillis 4-1, 4-2, 4-2. Patsy Creel over Helen Howes, 4-1, 4-0. Loretta Wilson over Mary Ann Howes, 4-2, 4-0.

Customer at garage: "I've been watching that mechanic for fully 15 minutes, and there's a man who knows his business! He didn't spill a drop of oil, he put the hood down gently, fastened it securely, left no fingerprints on the car. He wiped his hands before opening the door, spread clean cloth on the upholstery, meshed the gears noiselessly, and drove away carefully."

Bystander: "Yeah, that's his own car."

Former Governor, Fred P. Cone, Passes

WHITE SPRINGS—Death came last week to Florida's colorful former Governor Fred P. Cone who died at his home in Lake City after a brief illness. He was laid to rest on the banks of the Suwannee River he loved so well, in the family burial plot.

Graveside rites in the Old Prospect Churchyard followed funeral services at the First Baptist Church in Lake City. Reverend E. F. Montgomery, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, told the more than 400 persons attending:

"An eulogy could do no further honor to this man. Our greatest defense lies in the lives of those individuals who have been our inspiration in these restless times."

Among state officials attending the services were Secretary of State R. A. Gray; Road Department Chairman Elgin Bayless and Former Governor John W. Martin. gubernatorial nominee Fuller Warren also attended; he had long been a close friend of Fred Cone. The former Governor was 76 at the time of his death.

Mrs. W. P. Jernigan and Mrs. Beryl Bowden of Clewiston were guests of Mrs. Paul Rardin in Canal Point Friday.

Cover Crop Unusual On Hialeah Track

HIALEAH—Not all the "cabbage" at Hialeah Park goes through the pari-mutuel windows during the racing season.

Some of it stays on the track. Right now, there is a good crop of velvet beans, blackeyed peas, okra, cucumbers and other running vines growing where the nation's thoroughbred horses cavort during the racing season.

It's the only race track in the country that grows a crop of vegetables during the off-season, according to Joe W. Morrow, superintendent of the plant and track at Hialeah Park since 1931.

Planted in late April on six inches of straw and manure from the stables, the crop is allowed to grow until mid-September when it is mashed with a straight disk. After it rots for about 30 days it is disked about two inches under the surface and this forms a soft cushion for the pounding hooves of the blue-blooded horses.

Cement Concern To Operate In Florida

JACKSONVILLE—The Lehigh Portland Cement Company is coming into Florida in a big way. The Corporation recently acquired 9,500 acres of land bordering on the Florida Intracoastal Waterway just north of Flagler Beach.

A. K. Cawley, assistant secretary of the company, stated that this site was chosen because it provided great quantities of coquina shells which can be used in processing, and that being located on the Intracoastal Waterway insured water transportation for heavy freight.

The company also bought five and one-half acres of dock property in Jacksonville and plans to build cement silos and a shipping station for its Florida products.

Skill Lacking, Many Remain Unemployed

A large proportion of the current unemployment is caused by seasonality of work in the state, scarcity of specialized skills and age restrictions. A. M. Larrimore, manager of the Belle Glade office of the Florida State Employment Service announced today.

Numbers of jobs remained unfilled, despite the existence of a pool of unemployed workers because few of those within the desired age brackets possess the specialized skill or training which is needed in the vacant jobs, Larrimore said.

Placements through the Belle Glade Employment office amounted to 32 during July, which is a decrease since June. Employment in the area is maintaining a slightly lower level than last year, due to less new construction and a greater out-migration of farm workers.

A growing demand for small cars, says Powell Croasley, Jr., pioneer builder of lightweight automobiles, indicates an end to the modern trend toward bulkier cars which in recent years has caused a shrinkage of more than 15 per cent in the nation's public garage and parking capacity.

Business may be off at other race tracks this summer, but not at Hialeah, which is enjoying record crowds of sightseers. There was an increase of 15 per cent in visitors for June over 1947, a survey reveals. More than 2,000 daily visit the track, the only one in the world kept open the year-round as a public park.

Al Cahill, president of the Jacksonville Junior Chamber of Commerce was installed as president of the Florida Jaycees at a banquet in Jacksonville this week. He succeeds William S. Rolleston of Marieland.

Citrus Mutual Has Future Plans Ready

LAKELAND—L. B. Anderson, of Mulberry, in a letter to the press, made the suggestion that inquiries about Florida Citrus Mutual be answered through newspapers as a means of getting more information to growers.

Jim Morton, organizing director of Mutual, has drawn up a list of questions being asked at organizational meetings over the state and presented answers to the. The questions and answers are:

Q Will Florida Citrus Mutual be in operation early next season?

A Yes, if the citrus growers of Florida want it. It can only become active if 75 per cent or more of the tonnage is signed up on grower contracts. Your signed grower contract is needed to make this total, and contracts are available to you at most banks and chambers of commerce in the citrus area.

Q As a grower, if I sign up and the packer or canner with whom I have done business in the past does not sign, what shall I do?

A If 75 percent of the growers have signed with Mutual, your shipper or canner will probably also be in Mutual. If not, there will be available to you for your service like packing and canning facilities if Mutual members.

Q Will those growers who do not become members of Mutual have an advantage by staying outside?

A Definitely not. Mutual by virtue of size and volume will enjoy preferred recognition, and will secure definite market advantages for its members. Mutual will be able to give service to growers that could not be had by growers who stay outside.

Q When will we growers elect a new board of directors?

A As soon as 75 per cent has been signed up, an election will be called and the grower-members of Mutual will elect a new board of directors. There will be a new board in active control of Mutual before it goes into operation.

Q How is the board of directors elected?

A In each of the seven Florida Citrus Commission districts, Mutual grower members will meet annually to elect two directors—a total of 14 from the districts. These 14 will be a nominating committee, and will present names to the growers attending the annual state meeting of Mutual. Seven other directors will be elected at the annual meeting, to make a total of 21 directors.

Q Does every Mutual grower have a vote?

A Yes. The control of Mutual is by the votes of its grower members in the election of the board of directors. Every grower, large or small, has one vote.

Q How will Mutual operate through its board of directors and its executive committee?

A The executive committee will be 13 shippers and canners nominated by the handlers in Mutual, and elected by the board of directors. They will be men skilled in selling and marketing with the experience, and "know how" to develop workable control plans, equitable to both growers and shippers, which will give Florida citrus growers intelligent marketing and distribution of their products.

Q If I become a member of Mutual, can I sell my fruit on the trees as in the past?

A Yes, just as you always have done, except that you agree to sell or market only through handlers who have contracts with Mutual.

Q In the event of hail damage or destruction of my crop by freeze or hurricane, will Mutual reimburse me for my loss?

A No. Hail damage or destruction by hurricane or freeze are known as Acts of God, and are not the responsibility of Mutual.

Q Does Mutual control express shipments?

A No. Mutual contracts do not cover Florida citrus fruit or products used for home consumption, or small quantities disposed of for local consumption, or fruit shipped by express or sold to express shippers. Your contract contains these exceptions.

Q How will my $5 membership fee be used?

A The membership fee is to cover the expenses of the organization of Mutual—travel, printing, office salaries, telephone, telegraph, etc.

Q If I have signed a Mutual contract, what more can I do to help?

A You can help by getting your neighbor grower to become a member. You can secure his membership, where a stranger might not be able to because he probably has faith in your judgement.

Adams - Padgett

The marriage of Miss Isabel Christine Adams and Dan Clifford Padgett was solemnized in Belle Glade Saturday evening at the Community Methodist church with the Rev. Leonard Vandewater officiating in a single ring ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Henry Bridges attended the couple.

The bride wore a light blue crepe afternoon dress fashioned with appliqued lace flowers. A fingerling veil was attached to her small white hat, and her corsage was of pink rosebuds.

A white crepe dress styled with its peplum effect was worn by Mrs. Bridges, and a rosebud corsage completed her attire.

The couple is touring the state and will live in Belle Glade. Mrs. Padgett will continue as chief nurse and supervisor of surgery at the Belle Glade hospital, and Mr. Padgett will continue farming.

Rainfall Hampers Construction Of Capitol Center

TALLAHASSEE—Optimism was expressed here Sunday that the three buildings in the state's multi-million dollar capitol center project will be completed by next Jan. 1.

Hampered by almost 60 inches of rainfall so far in 1948 and with the wettest July in 61 years, construction of the State Supreme court, the State Road department and the Industrial Commission buildings has lagged far behind anticipation.

The $1,700,000 Supreme court building located on Duval st. in the shadow of the state capitol, and the costliest of the three, is only half finished.

Tardiness of construction of this structure has drawn comment at cabinet meetings from Gov. Milford F. Caldwell.

Both the $1,500,000 State Road building and the $1,200,000 Industrial Commission structure are 71 per cent finished but they are from 21 to 27 per cent behind construction schedule, E. M. Watkins, construction supervisor, reports.

The Industrial Commission building which stands just south of the Statehouse—although far from finished—will be the scene of feverish moving around Sept. 1.

Chairman Carl B. Smith said the commission will start moving in that date, although the contractors see no prospects of the upper floor of the building being completed by then.

Little hope of the Supreme court and state road building being ready for occupancy before next year was seen by contractors.

But the buildings will be among the South's finest when they are finished, declared Watkins. They'll be painted to match the old capitol.

The Industrial Commission building will house other agencies, including the beauty culture board, livestock sanitary board and the tuberculosis board offices.

All buildings will be connected with a central heating plant layout and air-conditioned.

That's right! When you must walk on the highways in rural or suburban areas, always walk on the left side of the road—facing traffic.

There is plenty of reason for this. Last year for every person killed facing traffic three were killed walking with traffic. 24 Floridians lost their lives and 33 were injured walking the wrong way instead of facing oncoming cars. For every daytime fatality there were 4 deaths during the dusk and dark hours. Six more people lost their lives merely standing in the road.

Never assume you are safe when walking on the highways—many times you are hard to see. Then, too, the despicable hit and run driver is still at large—his numbers and his victims increasing. In the first six months of 1946, 78 hit-and-run accidents were recorded in Florida and 16 were killed by these car cowards.

So remember for your own sake—on highways, walk to the left facing traffic—be alert to danger—be alive tomorrow.
